Welcome to National Heritage

Welcome to your guide to the events taking place during National Heritage Week 2026! This year's theme, Heritage at Risk, invites us to look closely at the places, practices, stories, and natural environments that are under threat and to consider how we can respond with care, creativity, and collective responsibility. From vulnerable historic buildings to fading cultural traditions and endangered habitats, this year for National Heritage Week the Heritage Council wants to shine a light on what we stand to lose, and what we can still protect.

We are deeply grateful for the dedication of heritage and biodiversity officers in local authorities, as well as the passionate volunteers and community groups across the country. Their commitment has brought together the events you'll find in this guide, helping to safeguard our shared heritage and ensure it remains vibrant and valued for generations to come.

New events will continue to be added right up to the beginning of National Heritage Week, so be sure to visit heritageweek.ie regularly for updates. There, you can explore the full programme, create your own customised calendar, and discover projects happening near you and online including many that highlight the built, cultural, and natural heritage most at risk today.

Virginia Teehan
CEO, Heritage Council

A Welcome from your local Heritage Officer

As Heritage Officer for Cavan County Council, I am delighted to welcome you to this year's Heritage Week and to our events focusing on the important theme of "Heritage at Risk." Heritage surrounds us every day. It can be found in our historic buildings, archaeological sites, traditional skills, archives, wildlife habitats, boglands, lakes, hedgerows and the stories passed down through generations. These are the treasures that connect us to our past and help shape our sense of place and identity.

However, much of this heritage is under increasing pressure. Climate change, neglect, loss of traditional knowledge, development pressures and changing land use practices all pose challenges to the protection of our heritage. The theme "Heritage at Risk" reminds us that our heritage cannot be taken for granted. It requires awareness, care and collective action if it is to be preserved for future generations. Heritage Week offers an opportunity not only to celebrate our heritage but also to reflect on our responsibility towards it.

I would like to thank all those who have organised and supported Heritage Week events throughout the county. Your commitment, enthusiasm and expertise makes this programme of events possible and help to inspire a greater appreciation of our heritage.

I wish you an enjoyable and thought-provoking Heritage Week.
Go raibh míle maith agaibh.

Anne Marie Ward

Heritage Officer, Cavan County Council

Stone & Silence Photography Exhibition

Stone & Silence photography exhibition explores the enduring presence of Ireland's ancient megalithic monuments and their significance within the cultural landscape.

Through contemporary imagery, the project highlights these remarkable sites as places of memory, ritual, and connection to the past.

By drawing attention to their scale, beauty, and vulnerability, Stone & Silence encourages a deeper appreciation of Ireland's prehistoric heritage and the importance of preserving these enduring landmarks for future generations.

Havens for Nature: Supporting Biodiversity in Faith Grounds Online Talk

This online event is for any faith groups or individuals interested in taking action for biodiversity on their faith grounds. Open to all interested!

The Heritage Council published a booklet earlier this year, Havens for Nature: Supporting Biodiversity in Faith Grounds. This guide supports faith communities to take simple actions for biodiversity on their grounds. Read the guide at www.heritagecouncil.ie/publications.

This online event will bring together a range of expert speakers to give practical tips on why action is so important, how to get started, and the biodiversity measures that can make a real difference.

Action for biodiversity on faith grounds is growing year on year, with the Irish Catholic Bishops' Conference commitment to return 30% of church grounds to nature by 2030 helping to spur action in recent years. We hope this event will inspire many more people to get involved and provide the tools and contacts needed to do so.

Speakers include: Meadhbh Bolger, Biodiversity Officer, The Heritage Council; Kate Chandler, NBDC; Jennie Drysdale, Chairperson of Doonbeg Tidy Towns / Doonbeg Church Return to Nature; Jane Mellett, Trócaire and Laudato Si' Working Group; The Reverend David White, Rector, Zion Church of Ireland Parish; Satwinder Singh, EcoSikh Ireland Chairperson; and Paul McNamee, Sunyata Buddhist Centre.

The event is online.

Please book below via the Eventbrite link and a Zoom link will be sent to your email on the morning of the event.

Please contact Meadhbh Bolger, Biodiversity Officer with the Heritage Council, if you have any questions. FREE BOOKING ESSENTIAL Havens for Nature: Supporting Biodiversity in Faith Grounds Online Talk Tickets, Monday 17 August • 7:30 PM - 8:45 PM | Eventbrite

Webinar: The All-Ireland-Pollinator Plan 2026-2030: What's new and how to get involved

Join us for a free lunchtime webinar with All-Ireland Pollinator Plan Programme Manager, Dr Sarah Larragy, to explore the next phase of the AIPP (2026–2030) and hear about the plans for the next five years.

We'll introduce the Plan's vision and priorities, highlighting its 10 work packages which bring together actions across sectors including farmland, public land, transport networks, communities, businesses and researchers. You'll also hear about how the Plan's 50 strategic aims and 75 success metrics will help guide and measure progress towards an island where pollinators can survive and thrive.

Whether you're already involved in biodiversity initiatives or looking to get started, this webinar will show how the All-Ireland Pollinator Plan provides practical tools, resources, and inspiration to help everyone play a part in protecting pollinating insects. Find out how you can get involved and help turn individual actions into lasting, landscape-scale change for pollinators across the island of Ireland. BOOKING ESSENTIAL Select tickets – Webinar: The All-Ireland Pollinator Plan 2026-2030: What's new and how to get involved – Microsoft Teams FREE

Afternoon Tea & Needle Felted Pictures

Sadly Irish wool use is in decline and no longer considered a valuable raw material for use in textile industry. In this workshop you will use our own wool from our native Irish rare breed sheep that we have washed and dyed specifically to use for this craft. We will begin with enjoying all the delights of a home baked afternoon tea served with vintage china, Newbridge cutlery and our best linen in our quirky cafe and then create your unique needle felted picture. In the afternoon workshop you will learn how to master the art of wool painting using wool from our own sheep that graze our farm. This workshop is suitable for absolute beginners and you will be shown the entire process of how to create your own landscape picture.

Come along with your friends or family and enjoy a fun creative afternoon.

Price includes refreshments and the materials to create your own masterpiece. We can cater for special dietary requirements but need to be notified when booking. Booking Essential Heritage Week Afternoon Tea and Needle Felted Pictures – Crafts of Ireland FREE

Heritage Gathering at Drummany Spirit

Come and experience a celebration of living Irish heritage at Drummany Spirit Certified Organic Farm, where the story of the land, food, music, language & traditions come together for a special gathering in the heart of Cavan.

Step inside Bridget's restored thatched cottage and discover the craftsmanship of an Irish home built generations ago. See the traditional roof structure, including its laths, sod and thatch, and experience the warmth and atmosphere of a traditional Irish music session by the hearth fire.

Taste the farm through a selection of our own herbal teas, grown, harvested and dried here at Drummany Spirit. Visit our Heritage Organic Farm Stand, showcasing seasonal produce grown on our certified organic land, alongside our very special Honey from the Labyrinth Field — a taste of the flowers, bees and changing seasons of this place.

Then journey into the Healing Spirit Field, where the Heart Space becomes a place of gathering and connection.

At its heart is An Ruaille Buaille Druma, bringing people together through rhythm, participation and the Irish language. Through Glao agus Freagra — Call and Response in Irish — everyone is invited to become part of the experience .FREE

Forgotten Lives from the Bridewell

With this year's theme 'Heritage at Risk' in mind, this mini-exhibition will present a series of newly researched and pieced-together stories drawn from historical records connected to Bailieborough and the Courthouse & Bridewell. These stories will explore the lived experiences of ordinary people in the locality in the 19th century when the Bridewell was a functioning gaol, offering visitors an opportunity to rediscover local lives that have largely been forgotten - examples of why it is important to keep researching and recording our local history, both built and cultural heritage.

Through a series of interpretive display panels installed within the Keeper's Quarters, the exhibition will provide an accessible and engaging insight into crime, justice, and everyday survival in the past. The guide will be available at times for informal engagement with visitors, sharing the research process and the stories behind the exhibit. FREE

Corravahan House: Survival and Conservation

Informative hourly tours of the historic Georgian-style country house, exploring its rescue, conservation, architecture and history, and its connections to the Beresford and Leslie families.

Dating to 1840, built by a Beresford clergyman, later owned by the Leslie family, and carefully conserved over the past twenty years, Corravahan House retains all of its original period features. This "architectural gem" remains an extraordinarily intact example of Italianate Classical architecture. Corravahan stands as a fitting tribute to the works of William Farrell, some-time architect to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

The tour explores the architectural design and development of the house, setting it in the social and political environment inhabited by its wealthy owners. The tour will be followed by access to the surrounding pleasure gardens. Tours on the hour, with telephone or email pre-booking recommended. Last admission one hour before closing. ADMISSION FEE
